They also run extramural programs focused on the maintenance, protection, and improvement of the health status of vulnerable or at risk Latinx groups like women, adolescents and the elderly. Not only is their work based on clinics but in advocating for healthy lifestyles. Community health organizations are an important component of the regional health system as they provide culturally appropriate and highly valued programs and services. Overall, these organizations inform their communities about mental health, diabetes, hypertension, and other illnesses, affecting the Latinx community.

MIGRANT RIGHTS AND ADVOCACY
Migrant Rights and Advocacy Latinx Organizations are invested in promoting leadership development, civic participation, emotional support and legal services for migrants in the Phoenix Metro area. Some of the most valuable services include helping immigrants become U.S. citizens, attain legal status, voting, education, and empowering the community with workshops and other activities. They also provide financial support like scholarships for undocumented students, advocating for justice for some of the most vulnerable people, and providing legal representation for immigrants and their families. These organizations seek to educate Arizonans about the immigration system, raise awareness about the types of issues affecting the Latinx migrant community, and advocate for policies that can lead to the betterment of the migrant community.

Arizona Dream Act Coalition
The Arizona Dream Act Coalition is focused on advocacy for equal higher education and immigrant rights.

“It is the mission of the Arizona Dream Act Coalition to advocate for the rights of our undocumented immigrant communities socially & politically by organizing and mobilizing our constituency through the development and fostering of Arizona leaders, promoting civic engagement, promoting the attainment and equal access of higher education for immigrant youth, strengthening relationships with diverse inter-sectional communities and providing services that advance the integration of our families.”

The Florence Project
The Florence Project is a program founded in Arizona that provides legal services to detained people under the threat of deportation.

“The Florence Project is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit legal service organization providing free legal services to men, women, and unaccompanied children in immigration custody in Arizona. Although the government assists indigent criminal defendants and civil litigants through public defenders and legal aid attorneys, it does not provide attorneys for people in immigration removal proceedings. As a result, an estimated 86 percent of the detained people go unrepresented due to poverty. The Florence Project strives to address this inequity both locally and nationally through direct service, partnerships with the community, and advocacy and outreach efforts.”

Services and resources: Legal Orientation Program:
Legal orientation to all detained men and women to empower them as they navigate the immigration system

UFW Foundation
The UFW Foundation has a main focus of educating/mobilizing the immigrant community, form the immigration system, and foster a network of farm workers to influence policy.

“ Begun in 1962 by Cesar Chavez, Dolores Huerta, Gilbert Padilla and other early organizers, the United Farm Workers of America is the nation’s first enduring and largest farm workers union. The UFW continues organizing in major agricultural sectors, chiefly in California. Recent years have witnessed dozens of UFW union contract victories protecting thousands of farm workers, among them agreements with the some of the largest berry, winery, tomato, dairy and mushroom companies in California and the nation. More than 75 percent of California’s fresh mushroom industry is now under union contract. Many recent UFW-sponsored laws and regulations protect all farm workers in California, especially those at non-union ranches. They include the first state standards in the U.S. to prevent further deaths and illnesses from extreme heat and in 2016 the first law in the country providing farm workers in California with overtime pay after eight hours a day. The UFW continues to actively champion legislative and regulatory reforms for farm workers covering issues such as worker protections, pesticides and immigration reform.”
